Special Correspondence. Panguitch, Garfield County, Nov. 18 .-A heartrending accident occurred here yesterday morning about 10 o'clock, when the little 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Church was burned to death.

Mr. Church was away from home and Mrs. Church and family had just fin-ished their breakfast. The mother vent over to the store on an errand and left a neighbor's girl about the same age playing with little Roka. When Mrs. Church left the house the two little girls were both outside, but it ap pears that as soon as she left they wen into the house and little Roka went to the fire place and got hold of some fire which caught her clothes, and in a moment she was ablaze from head to foo It seems the children had shut the door and tried to get out but could not open it. The little one was literally cooked alive. Although there were men in the yard. Mrs. Church was the first one to enter the house, and there on the floor in front of the door she found her little girl that she had left but a very few moments before so bright, lying in flames and burned to death. The whole community is grief stricken and deeply sympathize with the bepriate name of this ingenious carrie f passengers, which affords means of ransportation between the lower and wel part of the city and the lofty hill , a large and beautiful residen tion known as "Olive Heights. ly that eminence could be only by climbing half a dozen flights exceedingly difficult stairs.

Among the many who trudged up and olted down these steps was Col. J. W. ddy, and he conceived the idea that a railway up the incline could be made

Col. Eddy designed the diminutive system, and, failing to interest any-body else, undertook its construction. the financiers laughed at nd the public ridiculed his project, he sushed the work, making large expenditures, and soon had it completed.

The enterprise proved a marked suc ess from a fianancial as well as me chanical standpoint, and is now the property of a distinct corporation, the Los Angeles Electric Incline Railway company, with Col. Eddy as superindent. The people who scouted it now patrons of the line. A street n the heart of the city that had been cractically useless save for the tunnel neath has been converted from an sightly weed patch into a singularly attractive public utility. Electric foun-tains, grass covered terraces and flowers make the place a pleasant resort. It has been named Eddy park.

'The "Angels' Flight" is built on the three-rail, automatic, turnout system. Two neat coaches, the "Olivet" a "Sinai," are attached to the ends a doble cable, which is wound over the drum of a ten horse power electric moor in the power house at the top of the hill—a plant so small that it might be mistaken for a playhouse. As one car goes up the other descends, thus counterbalancing each other and effecting a great saving in power and ex-

The chariots hold ten persons each, seated, and they are never "packed" as on any other railroad, because it is not permitted. Standing is positively pro-hibited, because a possible sudden stop might throw a passenger out and down to certain death. Absolute safety is assured, the breakstrain of the cable is placed at 31.00 pounds and the weight of a car is 2.70 pounds, which could not be doubled even if the car were crowded. Should the working cable give way another is ready to take its place, and in case that broke a safety clutch would stop the car instantly,

At the lower station the "bill of fare" informs the passenger that he may have one ride for five cents, three for cents, 10 for 25 cents and 100 The designer estimated, in fixing the rates, that the people residing on the heights would pay the expenses of operation with one penny fare, and the five cent fares of the thousands of tourists and curiosity seekers who would be eager for so novel a trip would fur-nish the profit. His calculation has been more than justified. The cars run every minute, are nearly always occupied, and the one man in the power house performs all the functions of conductor, brakeman, engineer and fire-man on ordinary railways, so that the operating cost is small Entering at the lower station the passenger steps upon the car and is seated, an electric bell rings and the odd ride begins. The ascent is speedily made, and upon arrival at the upper terminus he passes through a wicket, first dropping a coin or ticket in the slot before the operator. Then he finds himself in a pretty open building prominself in a pretty open building provided with comfortable chairs, and cooled by the breezes wafted in from the sea and never felt at the base of the incline. This place is happily designated "Angels' Rest," and is surmounted with the gilded figure of an angel. From the "Angel's Rest," the upper station stairs lead up a steel observa-tion tower 200 feet above the street at the foot of the hill, and commanding a magnificent view. On the elevated platform visitors have the advantages of a powerful electric searchlight, a camera obscura and strong binoculars From the tower, and even from the cars of the diminutive railway, is had an excellent view of the most remarkable scenic railroad and the greatest incline on earth-that of Mount Lowe. Here are brought face to face the biggest and the smallest wonders of railway engineering in existence .- Record-

George Hamlin owns a little unkempt curly haired Scotch terrier dog that he wouldn't sell for his full weight in bologna sausage and an oil chromo besides. The reason for it is that Mr. Hamlin's business calls him frequently into a rattlesnake country and his dog is his bodyguard. He has a great nose on him for rattlesnakes, and on one occasion at least he probably saved Mr. Hamlin from one,

Last Saturday night he drove out to he Relief mine, arriving there about 11 o'clock. He took an armful of plunde up to the door of his cabin, and whil unlocking the door the dog crept u slyly toward him and began to whin nd bark. Mr. Hamlin knew the indepped back instantly, and as he did as he heard the unfriendly rattle of a big snake. He proceeded to kill the reptil and discovered that he was possessed nine rattles, and his mouth looked ry much like it was in working or r. The snake had been lying on the ne step waiting for something easy

o come along.

The next morning the dog found another rattler in the bunkhouse, which we called attention to, and which was uickly killed. Like proceedings fol-ewed the discovery of another snake in the engine house, and a third one of the outside, the dog finding all four of nem.
